

Ralph Trenary - Re-elect to the Loveland City Council

October 5 at 5:44pm · 🌐

I am hearing that there is a lot of complaining flying around various political circles. Rather than pointing fingers and making inflammatory accusations about disappearing campaign signs, I am encouraged that real property owners are cleaning up the political littering.

I noticed this afternoon that one vacant lot that is the property of a not-for-profit healthcare corporation has been cleaned up. Yet, an annoying little white sign quickly sprang-up.

Similarly, several of the public rights of way are less cluttered. Although there are so many others in need of attention.

This just seems to go on and on...

The City of Loveland Code Enforcement Officers are Aaron Turner and Sharyn Frazer. They have already given all campaigns more than enough notice to comply with the State and City laws.

It's time to stop tolerating the rude and illegal behavior. Let's stop the "political littering."

Here is their contact information. Take pictures and send them by email it's very effective.

Campaigning is NOT slapping yard signs illegally on private property, in the public rights of way along our roads, or in vacant lots owned by not-for-profit corporations without permission. This is irresponsible, disrespectful and criminal behavior.

I fully support the property owners who are standing up to this un-unconscionable practice. Even when it clear that there are cliques of candidates, slates, endorsed by powerful political and business special interests. This courage and integrity is an admirable gesture to settle who does and does not support these "litter-bug" candidates.

Local laws are clear on the maximum size of signs and than there should be one, a single, uno, 1 sign posted per property. The mob-o-signs, sign forest crowd clearly has no regard for those laws.

In addition to praising these businesses and property owners who are cleaning-up the clutter, we should all consider challenging the owners (or realtors of for sale properties) of decorated properties. Will they that they did give permission and truly support the election of these candidates? Or, is there more "gettin' away with it" that is easily recognizable.
